

My Vinyl Offering gets up close and personal with artists, musicians & friends to find out the most cherished parts of their media collection.

Greetings. My name is Ken and I created My Vinyl Offering.

My Vinyl Offering was originally born as a feature on my blog Inhale the Heavy. Due to its popularity, I decided to launch a site specifically dedicated to it.

I've been collecting records and cassettes for over 40 years. I was bitten by the vinyl bug in 1976 when I came across a used copy of Aerosmith's 'Toys in the Attic' at a garage sale.

To this day, I still cannot accurately describe the feeling I had the first time I picked up that record.

Here are the questions. Your answers can be as long or as short as you want, but preferably they are more than just naming an artist/album.

1. The first record I ever bought with my own money was...
2. The record that made me want to make music was...
3. The record I've played more than any other is...
4. The record that always make me feel good is...
5. The record I turn to when I'm feeling down is...
6. The record with my favorite cover art is...
7. The strangest LP I own is...
8. The rarest LP I own is...
9. The last LP I bought was...

Please send a photo along with your response. It can be of your collection, you holding some records, or whatever you'd like.

!!!PLEASE LET ME KNOW WHO YOU ARE AND THE NAME OF YOUR BAND!!!

Thank you. I look forward to hearing from you!
